Context and consideration for setting a cap

Baseline for setting limits on student enrolments

To the extent that limits are applied to the sector, the baseline from which limits are to be set should be set from the 2023 commencement profile, in terms of overall numbers and sector type, with options to redistribute the limit across course types according to a course-value methodology or maintain the ratios of enrolments in course types as at 2023. s 22(1)

The earlier baseline proposed by the Department of Education of 2019 is too far in the past to be reflective of current market demand and supply. It would therefore result in significant cuts to current enrolment numbers, causing a shock to the system that would impact on providers' businesses and risk the sector's reputation.
